Hi Mike, I will be at SOC in a little while but can you answer a question for me from a refinery in corpus, see below. Any guidance is helpful. I am on the fuels team at SOC but missed you yesterday and needed to get answer as quick as possible:

our folks in Corpus are having to bring in temporary fuel tanks to supply the temporary generators. Do they have to be concerned with amending their spill prevention control paperwork (SPCC) to reflect this? Obviously we will plan to report a spill if one occurs, but our folks are wondering if they have to amend their plans if it's temporary (and there being way more important things to be doing).
